

STUDENT COCHAIRS

Heidi Havrilla
Eric Johnson

STUDENT STEERING COMMITTEE

Gabe Larson
Jill Leary
Ben Morrison
Justin Phillips
Suzanne Yountchi

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Michael Mooney, President, Lewis & Clark College
Bob Mandel, Director, International Affairs Symposium;
Chair, International Affairs Department
Nancy Curran, Program Assistant, International Affairs Symposium
Mervyn Brockett, Assistant to the President/Secretary of the College
Michael Carnahan, Director, Programs on World Affairs,
World Affairs Council of Oregon
Amy Drill, Graphic Artist, Publications
Mine Eder, Assistant Professor, International Affairs
Robert Eisinger, Assistant Professor, Political Science
Jean Kempe-Ware, Director, Public Relations
Jim Lund, Associate Director, Publications
Vonnie Martin, Secretary, Social Sciences Division
Cyrus Partovi, Visiting Assistant Professor, International Affairs
Richard Peck, Professor, International Affairs
Scott Staff, Vice President for College Relations

SPECIAL THANKS

Wayne Potter, Portland Cable Access

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

Associated Students of Lewis & Clark College
World Affairs Council of Oregon

All sessions are free and open to the public and are held in the Templeton Student Center, Council Chamber. Details are subject to change. For more information call 503-768-7630.

Lewis & Clark College
0615 S.W. Palatine Hill Road
Portland, Oregon 97219-7899

Recycled paper. 3/98

LEWIS & CLARK COLLEGE

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

0615 S.W. PALATINE HILL ROAD
PORTLAND, OREGON 97219-7899

36th Annual
International Affairs Symposium
Lewis & Clark College
March 30-April 2, 1998

THE POWER OF FEAR

REASSESSING INTERNATIONAL TERRORISM

36th Annual
International Affairs Symposium
Lewis & Clark College
March 30-April 2, 1998

7:30 p.m., Monday, March 30

THE THREAT OF TERRORISM:
OMINOUS REALITY OR EXAGGERATED FALLACY?

DAVID KOPEL

David Kopel is an associate policy analyst at the Cato Institute as well as research director of the Independence Institute. He has served as an assistant attorney general for the state of Colorado. In 1997 Kopel received the Bill of Rights Award by the Second Amendment Foundation. He has written many articles on the threats that antiterrorism legislation pose to civil liberties, including “The Federal Government Should Set a Better Example” and “Preventing a Reign of Terror: Civil Liberties Implications of Terrorism Legislation.”

DENISE MINOR

Denise Minor is a supervisory special agent in the International Terrorism Operations Division at Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters in Washington, D.C. She was an FBI special agent for 12 years before being assigned to the FBI’s new terrorism division. In 1994 Minor was part of a five-member team that investigated war crime violations in Rwanda; in 1995 she participated in a murder investigation in Port-au-Prince, Haiti. She earned a juris doctorate from Northwestern School of Law of Lewis & Clark College.

3:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 31

TOOLS OF TERRORISM: WHICH WEAPONS SHOULD YOU FEAR MOST?

PAUL LEVENTHAL

After holding distinguished senior staff positions with the U.S. Senate, Paul Leventhal founded and is now president of the Nuclear Control Institute. He has authored numerous books and articles, lectured around the globe, and organized a conference in South America to avoid a nuclear arms race between Argentina and Brazil. His time in the Senate resulted in landmark legislation on nuclear regulation, proliferation, and prevention.

RICHARD BETTS

Richard Betts is a professor of political science, director of the Institute of War and Peace Studies, and director of the International Security Policy program at the School of International and Public Affairs at Columbia University. As a specialist on national security policy and military strategy, Betts has worked with the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, the National Security Council, and the Central Intelligence Agency. He has written and edited many prize-winning books and articles.

7:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 31

AGENTS OF TERROR: WHO WILL BE THE NEXT TERRORISTS?

YONAH ALEXANDER

Yonah Alexander is director of The Inter-University Center for Terrorism Studies at George Washington University and teaches at several of the university’s graduate schools. In addition, he conducts research at Tel Aviv University on biological, chemical, and nuclear “super terrorism.” As one of the foremost international authorities on terrorism, Alexander has written over 50 books on the subject and lectured throughout the world.

RICHARD WARD

Richard Ward is executive director of the Office of International Criminal Justice and professor of criminal justice at the University of Illinois. He is also publisher and editor of Crime and Justice International. Ward has authored and edited books on terrorism and crime, including his most recent work, The Gray Area: The Changing Nature of Organized Crime and Terrorism.

3:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 1

DIALOGUE WITH THE ENEMY: ARE THEIR CLAIMS LEGITIMATE?

WILLIAM DOUGLASS

William Douglass is coordinator of the Basque Studies Program at the University of Nevada at Reno. Douglass holds a Ph.D. in social anthropology from the University of Chicago. His research interests include ethnic groups and ethnicity maintenance, Mediterranean social structure, and migration studies. He has published many books on the Basques. Douglass recently coauthored a controversial book, Terror and Taboo: The Follies, Fables, and Faces of Terrorism.

DOUGLAS SILLIMAN

Douglas Silliman is regional officer for the Middle East in the U.S. State Department’s Counterterrorism Office. In his past 13 years with the Foreign Service, Silliman’s positions with the State Department have given him firsthand experience with international terrorism, including positions as political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Pakistan and Lebanese desk officer.

7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 1

COMBATING INTERNATIONAL TERRORISM: SHOULD WE FIGHT FIRE WITH FIRE?

STEPHEN GOTOWICKI

Lt. Col. Stephen Gotowicki is a field artillery officer, a Middle East foreign area officer, a designated Army strategist, and a joint specialty officer. He has extensive experience in command and staff positions with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations and Plans, and the United Nations. He recently published an article in Military Review entitled “Confronting Terrorism: New War Form or Mission Impossible?”

BRUCE HERSCHENSOHN

Bruce Herschensohn is a distinguished fellow at the Claremont Institute. He has been a political commentator on radio and television for the last two decades. Herschensohn has had an outstanding career in government service, winning the Distinguished Service Medal and serving as deputy special assistant to President Nixon. He has taught at several prominent universities and authored articles on politics, public policy, and counterterrorism.

7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 2

TERRORISM AND THE MEDIA: THE FIRST AMENDMENT GONE AWRY?

WALTER PINCUS

Walter Pincus is an investigative reporter for The Washington Post. He has written, directed, and produced critically acclaimed documentaries on subjects such as Watergate and the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Pincus has written on news subjects ranging from nuclear weapons and arms control to American hostages in Iran and investigations of Congress and the executive branch. He has received several prestigious journalism awards.

BRIGITTE NACOS

Brigitte Nacos is an adjunct professor of political science at Columbia University, where she teaches American government and politics. She has been a longtime U.S. correspondent for newspapers in Germany. Nacos is the author of several books about the role of the mass media in American politics and international and domestic terrorism, including The Press, Presidents, and Crises and Terrorism and the Media.