

MONDAY, OCTOBER 24TH

CONSTRUCTING INCLUSIVE & EQUITABLE
COLLEGE CLASSROOMS

DR. SAMUEL D. MUSEUS

In this lecture, Dr. Museus will discuss the importance of constructing more inclusive and equitable classrooms. Utilizing his scholarship on diverse college students, he will offer an overview of the ways in which instructors integrate culturally relevant content into their courses, utilize inclusive pedagogical practices, and create equitable classroom environments. Dr. Museus also will discuss how institutions can support faculty to develop the skills necessary to create inclusive and equitable classrooms.

Lewis & Clark's Teaching Excellence Program is funded by a generous grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

Gregg Pavilion

4 p.m. – 5 p.m.

Samuel D. Museus, Ph.D.

Director of Culturally
Engaging Campus
Environments (CECE)
Project

Associate Professor of Higher Education and Student Affairs

Indiana University,
Bloomington
School of Education

BROUGHT TO YOU BY:

Lewis & Clark's
Teaching Excellence Program (TEP)
in collaboration with the Committee on Diversity and Inclusion
(CDI)

RSVP to TEP Director,
Jerusha Detweiler-Bedell
tep@lclark.edu