

GENERAL INFORMATION

All sessions are free and open to the public. Sessions are held at the Council Chamber in the Templeton Campus Center. Details are subject to change. Parking fees are $5, free after 7pm.

For more information visit

go.lclark.edu/affairs/international/symposium

TRANSPORTATION

A free shuttle runs between campus and various locations.

Please visit www.lclark.edu/visit/directions/ for information about transportation.

STUDENT CHAIRS

Vinaya Bharam

Sam Stites

STEERING COMMITTEE

Emma Franco Cecena

Nejra Gradan

Lucas Heilbroner

Hanna Merzbach

Zakiya Newman

Diego Nieto

Pablo Quezada Cortes

Urshila Rana

Hannah Selwyn

Rafael Swit

Kaitlyn Vlahoulis

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Wim Wiewel, President

Jane Monnig Atkinson, Vice President and Provost

Bruce Suttmeier, Interim Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences

Bob Mandel, Professor of International Affairs and Director, International Affairs Symposium

Cyrus Partovi, Senior Lecturer in Social Sciences

Heather Smith-Cannoy, Associate Professor of International Affairs

Elizabeth Bennett, Assistant Professor of International Affairs

Kyle Lascurettes, Assistant Professor of International Affairs

Laura Vinson, Assistant Professor of International Affairs

Katie Sholian, Administrative Coordinator, Department of International Affairs

Annette Lanier, Executive Assistant to the President

Bon Appétit Catering

Office of Public Affairs and Communications

Events AV, Lewis & Clark College

Clay Howard, Graphic Design

GET INVOLVED

Twitter: @lewis_clarkIAS

Instagram: @IASympo

Facebook.com/iasympo

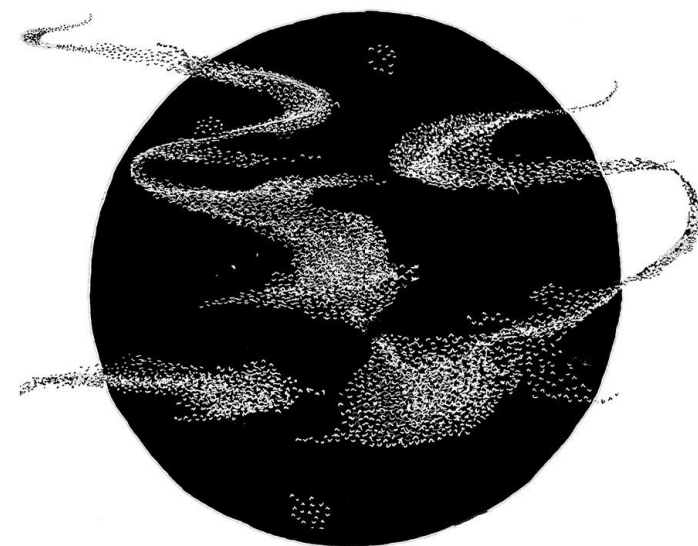

LEWIS & CLARK COLLEGE
0615 S.W. PALATINE HILL RD
PORTLAND, OREGON 97219

56th International Affairs Symposium

THE SCRAMBLE FOR SOVEREIGNTY

MODERN CHALLENGES TO AN AGE-OLD CONSTRUCT

LEWIS & CLARK COLLEGE
APRIL 9-11, 2018

Templeton Campus Center
Council Chamber

FIREWALLS:
APPLYING WESTPHALIAN PRINCIPLES TO CYBERSPACE

Monday, April 9, 3:30 p.m.

Moderator:
Tung Yin,
Law School

In an era where hacking, superbugs, and viruses can potentially disrupt large sectors of society, is the need for sovereign protection against these potential threats worth sacrificing unrestricted internet access? Do we need cyber borders?

COL. FORREST HARE

is a colonel in the United States Air Force, currently assigned to the Defense Intelligence Agency. He served at the U.S. Embassy in Malaysia and has taught courses in security policy at Georgetown University and Johns Hopkins University. His research focuses on how sovereignty interacts with cybersecurity.

GUS SWANDA

is an associate professor of international relations and diplomacy at Busan University of Foreign Studies in South Korea. He specializes in cybersecurity theory, inter-Korean relations, and cryptocurrency. His research and publications include analysis of “Cyber Westphalia” and North Asia security.

EARTH & ENTITLEMENT: RECONCILING INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS,
STATE SOVEREIGNTY, AND THE COMMON GOOD

Tuesday, April 10, 3:30 p.m.

Moderator:
Moriah Bostian,
Economics

Global environmental action has moved to the forefront of international discussion. Are international environmental agreements an infringement on state sovereignty and resource security or are they an essential component of an internationally shared future?

CHANDRA BHUSHAN
is deputy director general of the Centre for Science and Environment in New Delhi. For 21 years, he has worked with CSE to create environmentally stable paths to development within India. He has also worked with the United Nations to encourage the creation of a comprehensive international climate agreement. Most recently, he was awarded the 2017 Ozone Award for his work on the Kigali Amendment to the Montreal Protocol.

TERRY L. ANDERSON

is the John and Jean DeNault senior fellow at the Hoover Institution, a think-tank based at Stanford University. His research primarily focuses on the role of the free market in environmentalism—water markets, public land management, and the economics of property rights—which has prompted public debate over the role of government in managing natural resources.

RESPONSIBLE SOVEREIGNTY: EXPOSING TENSIONS SURROUNDING HUMANITARIAN INTERVENTION

Wednesday, April 11, 3:30 p.m.

Moderator:
Heather Smith-Cannoy,
International Affairs

What is more important: the sovereignty of a state or the sovereignty of its people? This question comes to the fore when a state fails to protect its population and other states feel obliged to intervene. In such regard, when and how should military intervention take place?

LOU PINGEOT

is a policy advisor for Global Policy Forum in New York, and a coordinator for McGill University’s Centre for International Peace and Security Studies in Montréal. Her research and publications focus on global governance at the United Nations—in particular, international development policies, peacekeeping, and humanitarian intervention.

THOMAS WEISS

is a presidential professor of political science at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York. A leading scholar on humanitarian intervention, he has written extensively on the Responsibility to Protect doctrine and intergovernmental organizations. His career has landed him on editorial boards of many peer-reviewed academic journals.

EVALUATING SECESSION: LEGITIMACY AND STABILITY IN THE BALANCE

Monday, April 9, 7:30 p.m.

Moderator:
Todd Lochner,
Political Science

Self-determination and territorial integrity come at odds when a people wish to create a state of their own. In this regard, how do secessionist movements and their new states get recognized if all states strive to protect their territorial integrity and sovereignty?

REP. BAYAN SAMI ABDUL RAHMAN

is a representative of the Kurdish regional government to the United States. Previously she worked as a journalist for the Financial Times, The Observer, and other local British newspapers. Representing the voice of the Kurdish government, she advocates for the Kurdish cause by promoting economic and political cooperation.

ALEKSANDAR PAVKOVIĆ

is an associate professor of politics and international relations at Macquarie University in Sydney, Australia. His research focuses on nationalism, state formation, and secession. Pavković has investigated the legitimacy of secession in contextual frameworks sensitive to the political conditions of states.

FOREIGN AID: A PATH TO DEVELOPMENT OR DEPENDENCE?

Tuesday, April 10, 7 p.m.

Moderator:
Aine McCarthy,
Economics

Foreign aid to the Global South has been assumed to alleviate poverty, financial crises, and health epidemics. Nonetheless, some aid-receiving states argue that foreign assistance is a hindrance to relieving domestic problems. Does foreign aid inhibit or enhance state sovereignty?

ANDREW MWENDA
is the founder and editor of The Independent in Uganda, and through his writing has become a powerful voice on economic and developmental issues. He has spoken widely on foreign aid at TED Talks, at the British House of Commons, and directly with the former British Prime Minister Tony Blair.

SAM JONES

is an associate professor in development economics at the University of Copenhagen. His research focuses on aid and its relation to sovereignty. He previously served in the Ministry of Planning and Development of Mozambique for seven years and has vast experience researching policy, macroeconomics, finance, and planning development.

A NEW GEOGRAPHY OF POWER?
STATE SOVEREIGNTY AND THE CORPORATE DILEMMA

Wednesday, April 11, 7 p.m.

Moderator:
Elizabeth Bennett,
International Affairs

In recent decades, the world has seen a drastic shift in prevalence from small businesses to corporate behemoths. Consequently, multinational corporations have gained an increasingly unprecedented role in the global political economy. Who is still sovereign: multinational corporations or states?

JOHN M. KLINE

is a professor of international business diplomacy at the Walsh School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University. He serves as a consultant to various international organizations and private multinational corporations (MNCs), and is a prominent voice in the discussion around growing power of MNCs and their effect on state sovereignty.

SASKIA SASSEN

is the Robert S. Lynd professor of sociology at Columbia University in New York and a member of its committee on global thought. Known for her sociological approach to studying cities, globalization, and immigration, her unprecedented works have changed how world actors understand sovereignty.