

Equitable & Justice-Driven

- Relay discussions/dialogues surrounding diversity, equity, and inclusion to the SAAC board and student athlete body
- SAAC :
 - Host bystander intervention training at the end of fall semester
 - Celebrate diversity in athletics (Diversity & Inclusion Day - Spring 2021)
- Personal :
 - Attend future DEI trainings
 - Speak out against injustices within daily life

Effective

- Find ways to contribute to weekly meetings, either through discussion or active listening
- SAAC :
 - Establish a roadmap of events for the 20-21 academic year
 - Biweekly board meetings to plan events and rep meetings
 - Facilitate communication between athletic faculty and student-athlete population

Community-Based

- Offer support to fellow ASLC reps/senators, and learn more about their organizations/positions
- SAAC :
 - Giving Thanks - Athletic teams will write letters of thanks to professors ; Board members will write letters of thanks to admin faculty, bon staff, health center, etc.
 - Strengthen social ties with entire student body through all-inclusive virtual events

Transparent

- Act as a liaison between SAAC and ASLC, making reports on each other's behalf
- SAAC :
 - Keep student body and faculty updated on our work via social media
 - Update SAAC website

Fall 20' Semester Report

Equitable & Justice-Driven

- Relay discussions/dialogues surrounding diversity, equity, and inclusion to the SAAC board and student athlete body
- This is an ongoing goal, however this semester I believe I did a decent job of communicating my experiences with the DEI training and other discussions. I did not spend as much time as I could have at SAAC meetings communicating these topics, so that can be an area for improvement next semester. I look forward to more DEI conversations!
- SAAC :
 - Host bystander intervention training at the end of fall semester
 - This did not happen this semester, and it has been tabled to next semester. We had a brief forum with the Title IX Coordinator, but no formal bystander intervention training
 - Celebrate diversity in athletics (Diversity & Inclusion Day - Spring 2021)
 - This was a 3-day event (10/27 - 10/29). Given the circumstances, this event was ok. We could have done a better job communicating the goals or motivation behind this event with the student-athlete population
- Personal :
 - Attend future DEI trainings
 - An ongoing goal, looking forward to more training next semester!
 - Speak out against injustices within daily life
 - This will be an ongoing goal for, what I imagine will be, the rest of my life

Effective

- Find ways to contribute to weekly meetings, either through discussion or active listening
- I ended up missing most of the first 4 weekly meetings due to baseball practice, but I attended every meeting after those 4. I contributed to discussion and listened to my peers speak when it was their turn
- SAAC :
 - Establish a roadmap of events for the 20-21 academic year
 - SAAC was successful in creating a dynamic roadmap for the fall early on in the semester
 - Biweekly board meetings to plan events and rep meetings
 - This was the first semester we decided to do biweekly board meetings, and it greatly benefitted internal communication. Rep meetings were also more productive and engaging as a result.
 - Facilitate communication between athletic faculty and student-athlete population
 - This semester, I found that I was facilitating communication more so between LC admin and the student-athlete body. Again, I think this was largely due to the circumstances

Community-Based

- Offer support to fellow ASLC reps/senators, and learn more about their organizations/positions
- I learned a lot about the inner mechanisms of the senate and cabinet! I am still learning ways to better support my peers, and I am open to any suggestions
- SAAC :
 - Giving Thanks - Athletic teams will write letters of thanks to professors ; Board members will write letters of thanks to admin faculty, bon staff, health center, etc.
 - Upon second consideration, we decided on a video format this year. We encouraged our reps and board members to post “thank-you” videos on their social media and to tag SAAC
 - Strengthen social ties with entire student body through all-inclusive virtual events
 - This was a very ambitious goal, and could have been executed better in a more “normal” semester. While we held several social media events, like bingo, day-in-the-lives, this-or-that, etc, community builders tend to be more effective in person. Food usually helps too.

Transparent

- Act as a liaison between SAAC and ASLC, making reports on each other's behalf
- I consistently reported back to the SAAC board and reps about ASLC’s weekly meetings. Likewise, I kept ASLC updated on SAAC via weekly reports
- SAAC :
 - Keep student body and faculty updated on our work via social media
 - SAAC’s use of social media this semester was consistent and well-done
 - Update SAAC website
 - The SAAC website has yet to be updated, and this is something I will bring up to the SAAC board next semester
