

Cabinet Advisor goals for 20-21

My primary goal is to support students in pursuing your own goals and those of the CAS student body. To that end I will:

- Seek to center racial & social justice in my advising
- Provide context re: what previous ASLCs have done & what other student governments have done
- Help connect ASLC's work with relevant staff members and other stakeholders who might collaborate for collective success
- Aim to model gratitude, curiosity and vulnerability as community-building, anti-oppressive strategies for success

Fall 20' Semester Report

In line with the ASLC Values Statement, I will encourage, challenge and support ASLC Cabinet and Senate members while prioritizing equity and justice. I've done this in some instances (e.g. elections & student fee increase discussions). I hope to continue & increase the time I & others spend analyzing and acting for equity.

Collaborative leadership models and asset-based community development practices also ground my advising work. This is still true. Perhaps there will be opportunities for me to share more about these foundations, if student leaders are interested.

As advisor I will provide relevant contextual information to aid student leaders in making decisions. When asked & sometimes before being asked, I've done this. I would like to revisit notes from previous ASLC advising to help me recount some of those experiences.

Lastly, my Southern upbringing necessitates an advising style that centers gratitude. I believe I've done this.
